PUBLIC PARTICIPTION REPORT ON THE 2014-2015 BUDGET PROCESS

INTRODUCTION

The Constitution of Kenya 2010 provides for a devolved system of government in which the sovereign power of the people is exercised at the national and county levels. The Objects of devolution are:

- ❖ To give power of self-governance to the people and enhance the participation of the people in the exercise of the powers of the state and in making decisions affecting them.
- ❖ To recognize the right of communities to manage their own affairs and to further their development.
- ❖ To protect and promote the interest and rights of minorities and marginalized communities.
- ❖ To promote social and economic development and the provision of proximate, easily accessible services throughout Kenya among others.

Article 201 of the Constitution requires that all aspects of public finance in the republic realize the following principles.

- ✚ That there be openness and accountability, including public participation in financial matters.
- ✚ Public finance system that promotes an equitable society and in particular expenditure that promotes the equitable development of the country, including by making special provision for the marginalized groups and areas.
- ✚ Prudent and responsible use and management of public funds.

Similarly, article 125(2) of Public Finance Management Act 2012 states that The County Executive Committee member for finance shall ensure that there is public participation in the budget process.

Since independence, Kenya's economic development focused on alleviation of poverty, improvement of literacy levels, and reducing incidence of diseases. The Sessional paper No. 10 of 1965 focused on the elimination of poverty, disease and ignorance. The paper also supported a policy of rapid economic growth in order to generate resources to meet the equity goal. Subsequent national development plans, the poverty reduction strategy paper, and the economic recovery strategy for wealth and employment creation (ERSWEC) 2003-07 have pursued goals that were closely focused on growth, poverty reduction, employment creation and improvement of the general wellbeing of the people. The Kenya Vision 2030 has similar objectives that aim at socioeconomic transformation of the Kenyan people.

Under this blueprint, Kenya aims to be a middle-income, rapidly industrializing country by 2030, offering all its citizens a high quality of life. Its first Medium Term Plan was implemented between 2008 and 2012.

The Second Medium Term Plan outlines the policies, programmes and projects to be implemented during the five year period starting 2013 to 2017 in order to deliver accelerated and inclusive economic growth, higher living standards, better education and health care, increased job creation especially for youth, commercialized agriculture providing higher rural incomes and affordable food, improved manufacturing sector and more diversified exports. However, over the years, these national strategies have not been very successful to achieve the planned objectives. This has been so due to poor linkages between planning, budgeting and implementation. The decentralized units were charged with planning but budgeting was centralized.

Rationale for public participation

Participatory budgeting aims to:

Reduce social exclusion and poverty: the traditional budgeting process can sometimes contribute to social exclusion and poverty due to elite capture, limiting resources available for service to the poor. By encouraging citizens' participation in budget decision making, participatory budgeting could be used to increase the allocation of resources to basic services in the poorest areas.

Increase efficiency in budget allocation: the budget is the most accurate statement of the government's priorities. However budgets sometimes do not reflect the real priorities of citizens. Scarce public resources are often spent on the wrong goods or the wrong people. Public participation can improve efficiency in budget allocation by creating procedures and avenues that bring the demand side closer to budget planning.

Improve accountability and management: government budgets are often perceived as too complex and technical for citizens' understanding. The complexity of budget information can facilitate the concealing of elite capture, budget leakages and under-performance; or it can just be the result of weak management capacity. Participatory budgeting has been used to demystify the budget, and improve inter-departmental coordination, and financial management.

Increase trust between government and population: citizens often complain that government is not solving their problems and not using their taxes for their needs. Lack of public expenditure information leads to public discontent and inaccurate citizen perceptions of corruption. Participatory budgeting can strengthen trust in government substantially as it encourages citizens and government to discuss budget constraints. This process provides an opportunity for government and citizens to discuss trade – offs on the use of scarce public resources vis- a –vis urgent and strategic investments.

Strengthen democratic practices: democratic systems are not always perfect. While the budgeting process has an annual decision making cycle and a continuous execution process, governments are mainly held accountable for their decisions during election time. This time lag can create favourable conditions for elite capture, patronage and clientism. By strengthening the linkages between the whole budget process cycle and citizens' participation, participatory budgeting can improve democratic practices.

COUNTY INTEGRATED DEVELOPMENT PLAN (2013-17)

This County Integrated Development Plan is the first publication produced by the county government of West Pokot and its stakeholders. It is the new medium term county development blueprint and is motivated by a collective aspiration for a better society by the end of the Plan period. The Plan has been informed by the Kenya Vision 2030 that aims to transform Kenya into 'a newly industrialising, middle income country providing a high quality of life to all its citizens in a clean and secure environment'. Simultaneously, the plan aspires to accelerate the realization of the MDGs for county residents by 2015. Its implementation will be through annual rolling work plans starting from the period 2013/2014. All the priorities and plans to be implemented must therefore have the CIDP as its reference point.

Challenges

- ✚ Transport means and high community expectations.
- ✚ Inadequate preparation and information gaps by county departments.
- ✚ Past priorities from the field not implemented created resistance from the public

- ✚ Youth participation was below expectation.

Recommendations

- ✚ Regular and targeted civic education needs to be conducted to sensitise community members on their roles and responsibilities under the devolved system of governance.
- ✚ County departments to fastract the implementation of 2013/14 budget so that the project implementation does not spill over to the 2014/15 fiscal year.
- ✚ Consideration for immediate recruitment of veterinary, livestock and agriculture extension officers for each ward to curb the acute shortage of field staff. There is also need to allocate more funds for livestock vaccination and increase vaccination period to at least 2-3 days.
- ✚ The budget office should in future adopt early timely budget preparation and deadlines to improve the budget process.
- ✚ Follow ups to ensure that the identified feasible field priorities are integrated in 2014/15 budget. This is the responsibility of both the budget office and the county planning unit.
- ✚ Formation of county budget and economic forum (CBEF) .
- ✚ There is need to harmonize county government projects with those of other development players to avoid funds wastage and duplication or channeling of funds from different sources to one project without structured negotiation on project funding.
- ✚ Strategy to ensure effective youth participation most of whom are only active in the social media.

Conclusion

Effective public participation will only be realized when public concerns are taken into account during decision making processes. For it to succeed, it calls for concerted and collaborative efforts of the national government, county governments, politicians, religious leaders, youth, women leaders and community leaders. It provides a means for developing a common development agenda for community socioeconomic transformation and shared prosperity.
